ROUTES DU BONHEUR From Lille to the Opal coast, wonders of the north

Discover the splendor of Nord-Pas-de-Calais, a region proud of its mining past and its elegant architectural heritage. The landscapes dominated by the belfries bear witness to the past greatness of the region, which is now experiencing a cultural renaissance, as evidenced by Lille, European Capital of Culture, and the Louvre-Lens Museum. You'll then head to Boulogne-sur-Mer, a city of Art and History, before exploring the seascapes of the Opal Coast and its fine sandy beaches bordered by spectacular dunes and cliffs.

Clarance Hôtel

Hotel and restaurant in town. The rooms open out to an enclosed garden, a small oasis of greenery where the organic herbs, fruits, and vegetables that supply the restaurant are grown. Stunningly, this is in the heart of Old Lille, in an 18th century private mansion with beautiful classic lines. Protectors of an undeniable charm, ceilings, floors, and antique woodwork have been conserved and are boldly married with the contemporary decors of the rooms, as well as works of art scattered throughout the hotel: it was indeed designed to be a genuine cultural space. At the restaurant, the chef produces a creative and "astounding" cuisine emphasizing local and seasonal products.

Le Château de Beaulieu

Restaurant and hotel in a park. The Château de Beaulieu is an architectural gem with elegant facades and interiors in a romantic park, one hour from Le Touquet, between the Opal Coast and Belgium. The subtle balance of classic architecture and contemporary art makes this the perfect setting for what is one of the top restaurants in the region. The Chef pays tribute to Pas-de-Calais producers by using ingredients like Boulogne-sur-Mer scallops, Étaples bass and other fish from the North Sea. Meurin believes that "because of the currents in the nearby sea, the fish become strong and daring, which enhances the quality of their taste". Savour his creations in two glass-roofed restaurants.

3 LA MADELAINE SOUS MONTREUIL — 1 NIGHT

(1 property available)

La Grenouillère

Hotel and restaurant in the country. TEMPORARY CLOSURE. La Grenouillère, originally a typical regional family restaurant, has become under the amazing starred Chef Alexandre Gauthier, one of France's most inventive chefs, a place which is definitely out of the ordinary. The century-old buildings have been preserved, but two sleek new metallic marquees by architect Patrick Bouchain have redesigned the property. The restaurant, which now opens out onto the garden and greenery, serves a radical cuisine, one that is rooted in the local area and uses freely and imaginatively ingredients from the sea and from hunting and gathering. You can extend your sensory experience by staying in one of the huts in the garden.
